The State of the American Veteran: The San Francisco Veterans Study polled more than 700 veterans to help identify opportunities for program development, public policy and community collaboration in the Bay Area.

It found that most service members leaving the military and returning to the San Francisco Bay Area are not prepared for the transition home and have a range of needs that cannot be addressed by a single organization. This lack of preparedness was seen across all four community studies, but San Francisco's veterans fared worse on a number of measures:

- Nearly 80 percent of veterans left the military without a job;
- Two in five veterans reported being homeless in the past year;
- More than half of San Francisco veterans have probable PTSD and nearly two-thirds likely have depression; and almost half (46 percent) of San Francisco veterans were considered at risk for suicide.

Naval Air Station and Depot

The base, rectangular in shape, is approximately 2 miles long and 1 mile wide, and occupies 2,634 acres of land. Approximately 1,526 acres of NAS Alameda are land and 1,108 acres are bay.

Alameda during WWII and by 1945 it was a huge facility with 3600 officers and 29,000 enlisted personnel.

Future Veterans Administration Building Complex

The site is currently undergoing redevelopment that will build new mixed use commercial/residential complex, open spaces, and a new Veterans Administration Clinic, Cemetery, long term care.

Base Alameda and Valor Games

It is home to several major United States Coast Guard commands and cutters, including the Coast Guard Pacific Area.

It is one of the largest Coast Guard bases on the West Coast.

In Summer 2017, CoA partnered with the Valor Games Far West in multiple ways:

- CoA Veteran's Center promoted the event
- CoA Outreach, DSPS, and Veteran's Center tabled at the resource fair
- CoA employees volunteered to support the games
- CoA President joined Mayor of Alameda for opening ceremonies

Our Mission

NPower creates pathways to economic prosperity by launching digital careers for military veterans and young adults from underserved communities

Tech Fundamentals

This program serve veterans and their spouses who are eager to transfer their experience and develop new skills toward an exciting career in technology. Each participant must be currently serving or honorably discharged from the military, be legal to work in the United States and be able to demonstrate a clear need for services.

The program runs a total of 22 weeks, including 15 weeks of class-based training and 7 weeks of paid internship.

Enterprise Service Management

Professionals with experience working in Software as a Service (“SaaS”) platforms are some of the most in-demand technologists in the industry today. NPower’s Enterprise Service Management training will help you launch your SaaS career, offering certifications in ITIL and Splunk
